

Call for contributions – Gender Studies journal

Gender Studies is an international, interdisciplinary journal that aims to contribute to the advancement of gender as a theoretical and analytical category and to bring valuable empirical work to the attention of academic and non-academic publics. It seeks to strengthen the public debate on gender related issues and to make an impact in an array of disciplines, among scholars, educators and practitioners alike. The journal publishes high-quality, peer-reviewed articles by authors from around the world, at different stages of their careers. It is indexed in over 30 international databases, among which SCOPUS, ERIH PLUS, EBSCO and CEEOL.

Between 1 February and 15 July 2021, Gender Studies welcomes original manuscripts employing primarily qualitative methods of analysis in the following areas: literature, linguistics, discourse studies, media and film studies, popular culture, cultural studies, history and education for the field of humanities.
